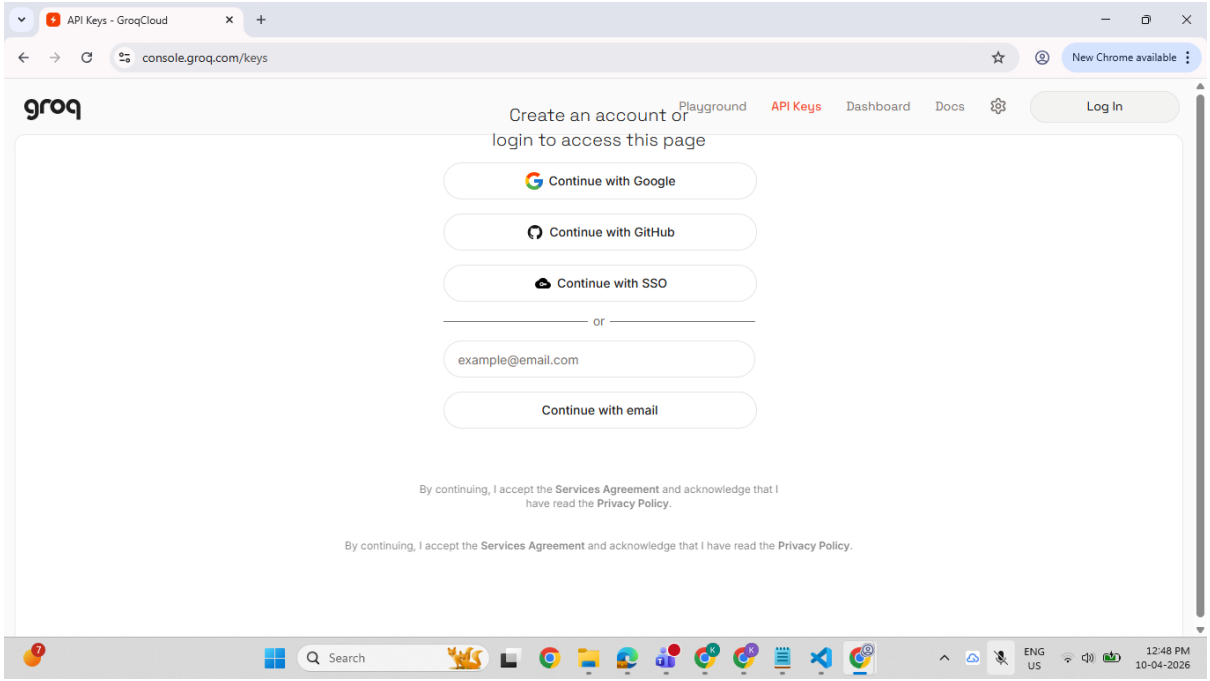
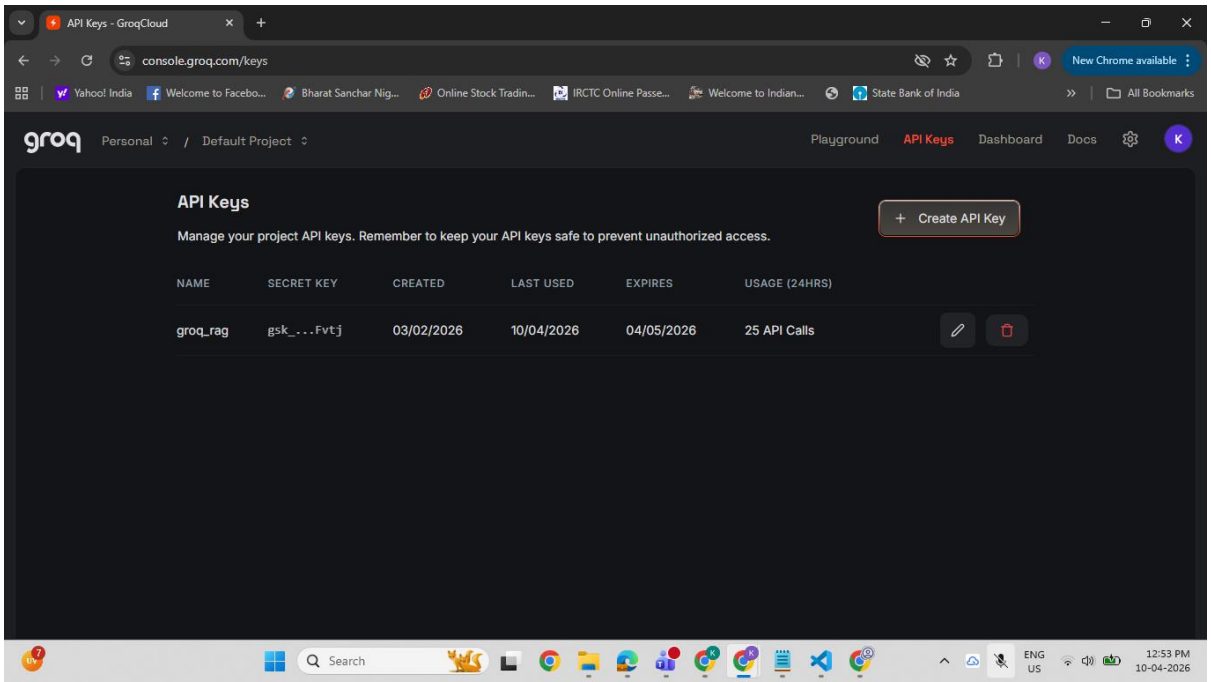
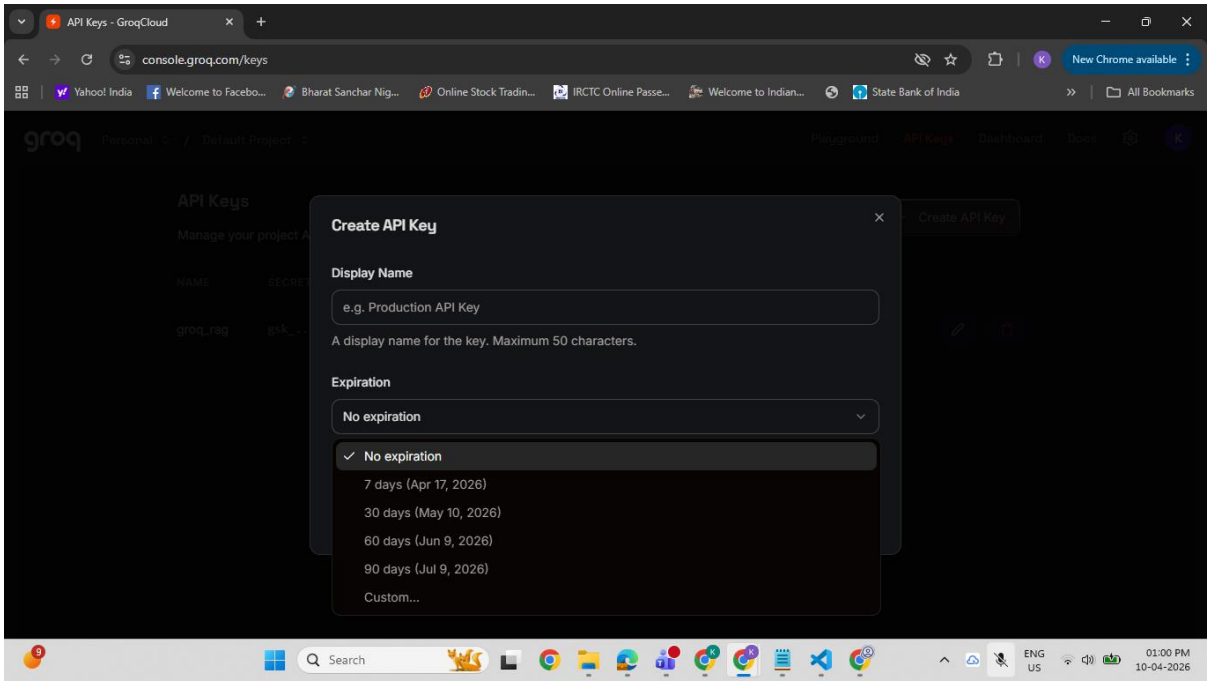
Create an account using your email or github.

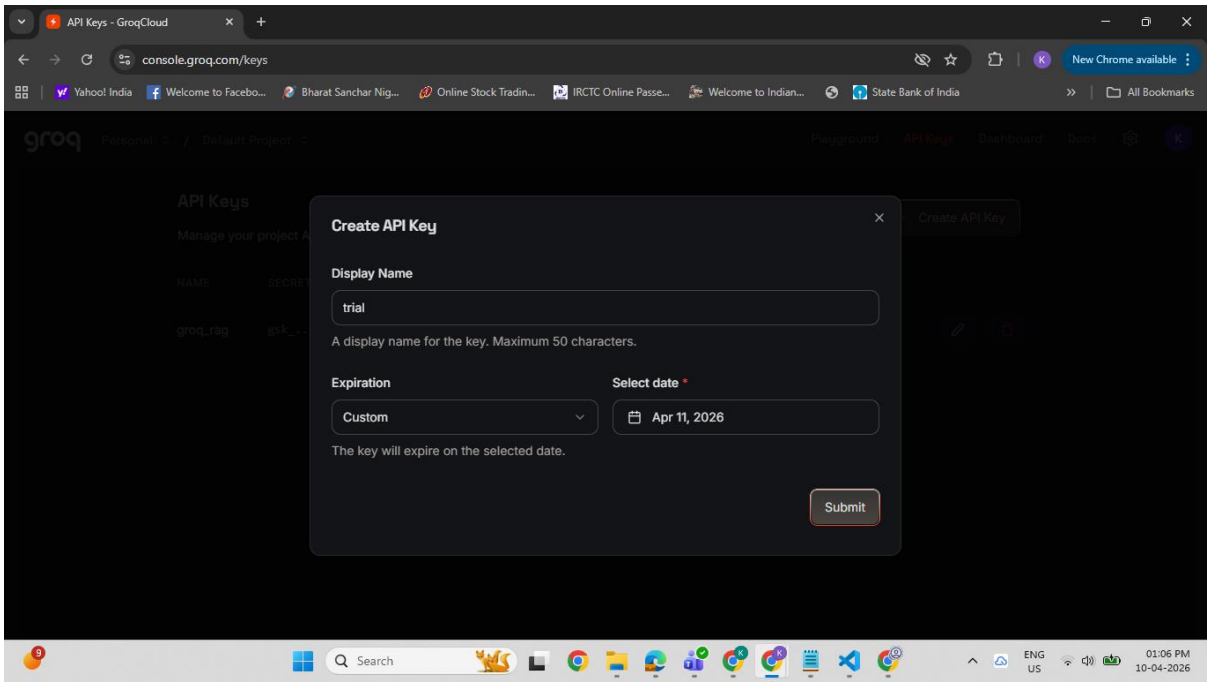


Go to API Keys and click on the Create API Key to create a new API key.

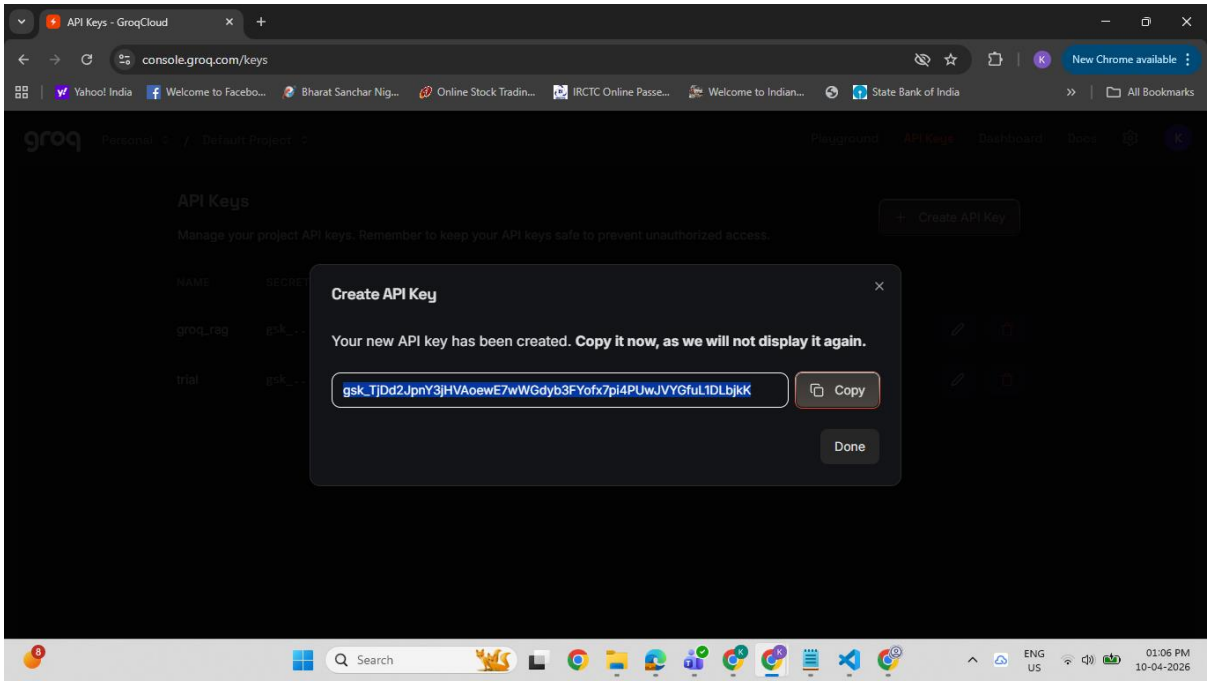


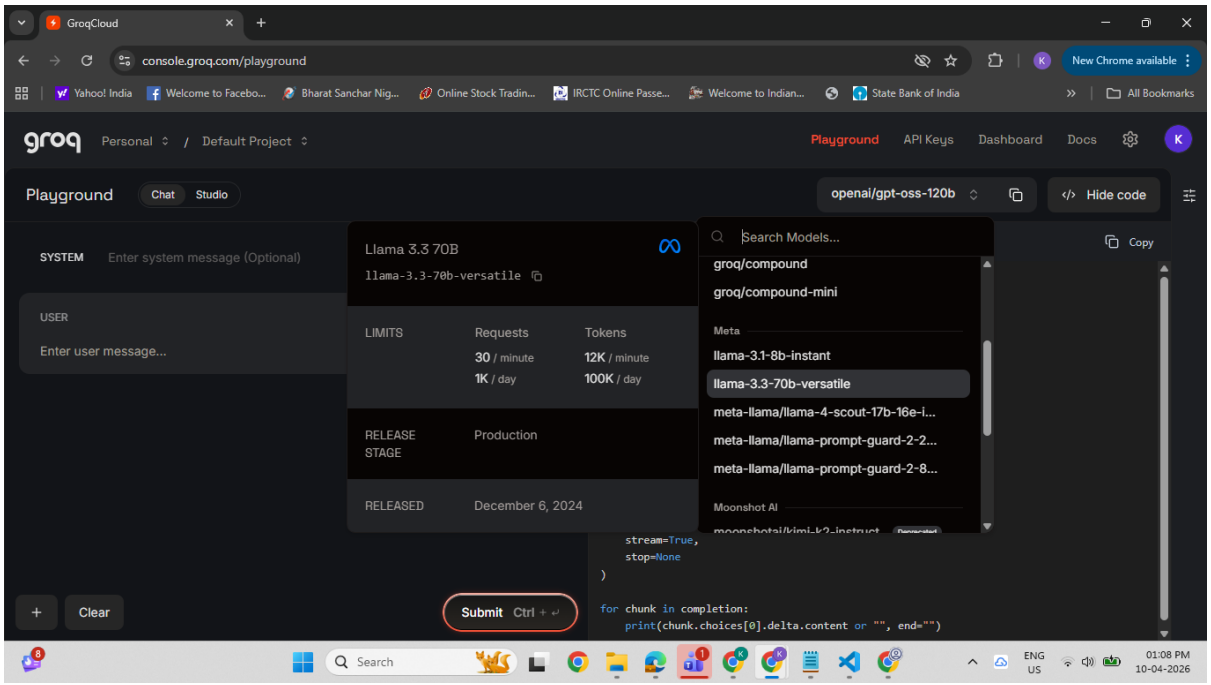
Name the API key and set up an expiration limit as per your own convenience.





Save your API key into your system or in your .env file for usage.





You can use several models available on the platform with respect to the limits of the free tier.